

shakesbook - directions

Profile Picture – This picture may be drawn, cut out from magazines, or an actual photo of yourself attached to the page. Remember, many actual Facebook profile pages do not have an actual photo of the person who made them – often the picture is something they feel represents them – flowers, sunsets, sports objects, etc.

Choose from one of the following characters for this assignment: Puck, Bottom, Helena, Demetrius, Hermia, Lysander, Oberon, or Titania.

Want extra credit? Complete a second profile for any additional character in the play.

Write the character's name and either paraphrase a quote or create a short one that defines this character's personality.

Networks: Choose from Athenians, Fairies, and Mechanics

Gender: Is the character male or female?

Relationship Status: Is the character married? Engaged? In a relationship? Or Single. If in a relationship, engaged, or married make sure you include to whom.

Political Views: You must use your knowledge of the character to infer what his/her political views might be. Use a quote the character says that provides insight into the character's political view.

Religious Views: Again, you must use your knowledge of the character to infer what his/her religious views might be. Use a quote the character says that provides insight into the character's religious views.

Friends

Friends – Think critically about who the character's friends are. Make sure you do not include anyone or anything the character clearly dislikes. You can draw the picture, cut out pictures from magazines, search the Internet, or collaborate with your classmates to use the same pictures.

Wall

You can draw the picture.

Only someone's friends can write on his/her wall.

Cut out pictures from magazines or the Internet

The comment should show some insight into the relationship between the characters. Writing generic messages like "What's up?" will not earn you any points.

Or collaborate with your classmates to use the same pictures

Instead, paraphrase an important question or statement the character's friend said in the play and/or write a comment that provides some insight into the characters' relationship or the plot of the play.

information

Contact info

Email: Create a nickname for the character and use that nickname for his/her email address.

Current town: Where does the character spend most of his/her time in the play?

Personal info

Activities: What does the character like to do? Use specific examples from the play.

Interests: What makes this character excited? Use specific examples from the play.

Favorite music: You might be able to find this information in the play or you might have to think creatively and infer what music the character might like based on his/her personality.

Favorite TV shows: This will not be found in the play! Infer what TV shows the character might like based on his/her personality.

Favorite movies: Infer what movies the character might like based on his/her personality.

Favorite books: Infer what books the character might like based on his/her personality.

Favorite _____ - Create another category (e.g. food, sport, vacation destination, etc.) and either use information from the play or make an inference based on the character's personality.